1961

NEWTON, MASSACHUSETTS

" . . . for great schools are little societies, where a boy of any observation may see in epitome what he will afterwards find in the world at large." These are the words of Henry Fielding, author of Joseph Andrews.

Our theme is an enlargement upon Fielding's statement. We believe that Newton High School is so diverse in its people, courses, and traditions that it is a little world or microcosm complete in itself. In this world we have spent three years of our lives, and now, as we venture into the Outer Space of the outside world, the 1961 Newtonian is our record of an era in our lives and that of Newton High School.

★ We have divided the yearbook into sections each of which describes a different aspect of the world of Newton High School. These sections are entitled: Government, Division of Labor, Arts, Sports, Social Structure, Literature, Philosophy, and Senior Citizens. We hope that the reader will use his imagination to fill in all the details of our analogy.

There is a serious message to this yearbook. We have a civilization in the world of Newton High School. This civilization has reached great spiritual heights in the past. Its progress has been recognized by the outside world. Our civilization was enjoying its prime when it was split in two. We are still enjoying our prime. But let us never forget the words of Arnold Toynbee. He has said that civilization is "a movement and not a condition, a voyage and not a harbor." He has reminded us that all past civilizations have broken down.

Let us not complacently assume that Newton High School is immune to the danger of breaking down — no civilization is. We must keep Newton High School from this danger; we must continue our voyage.

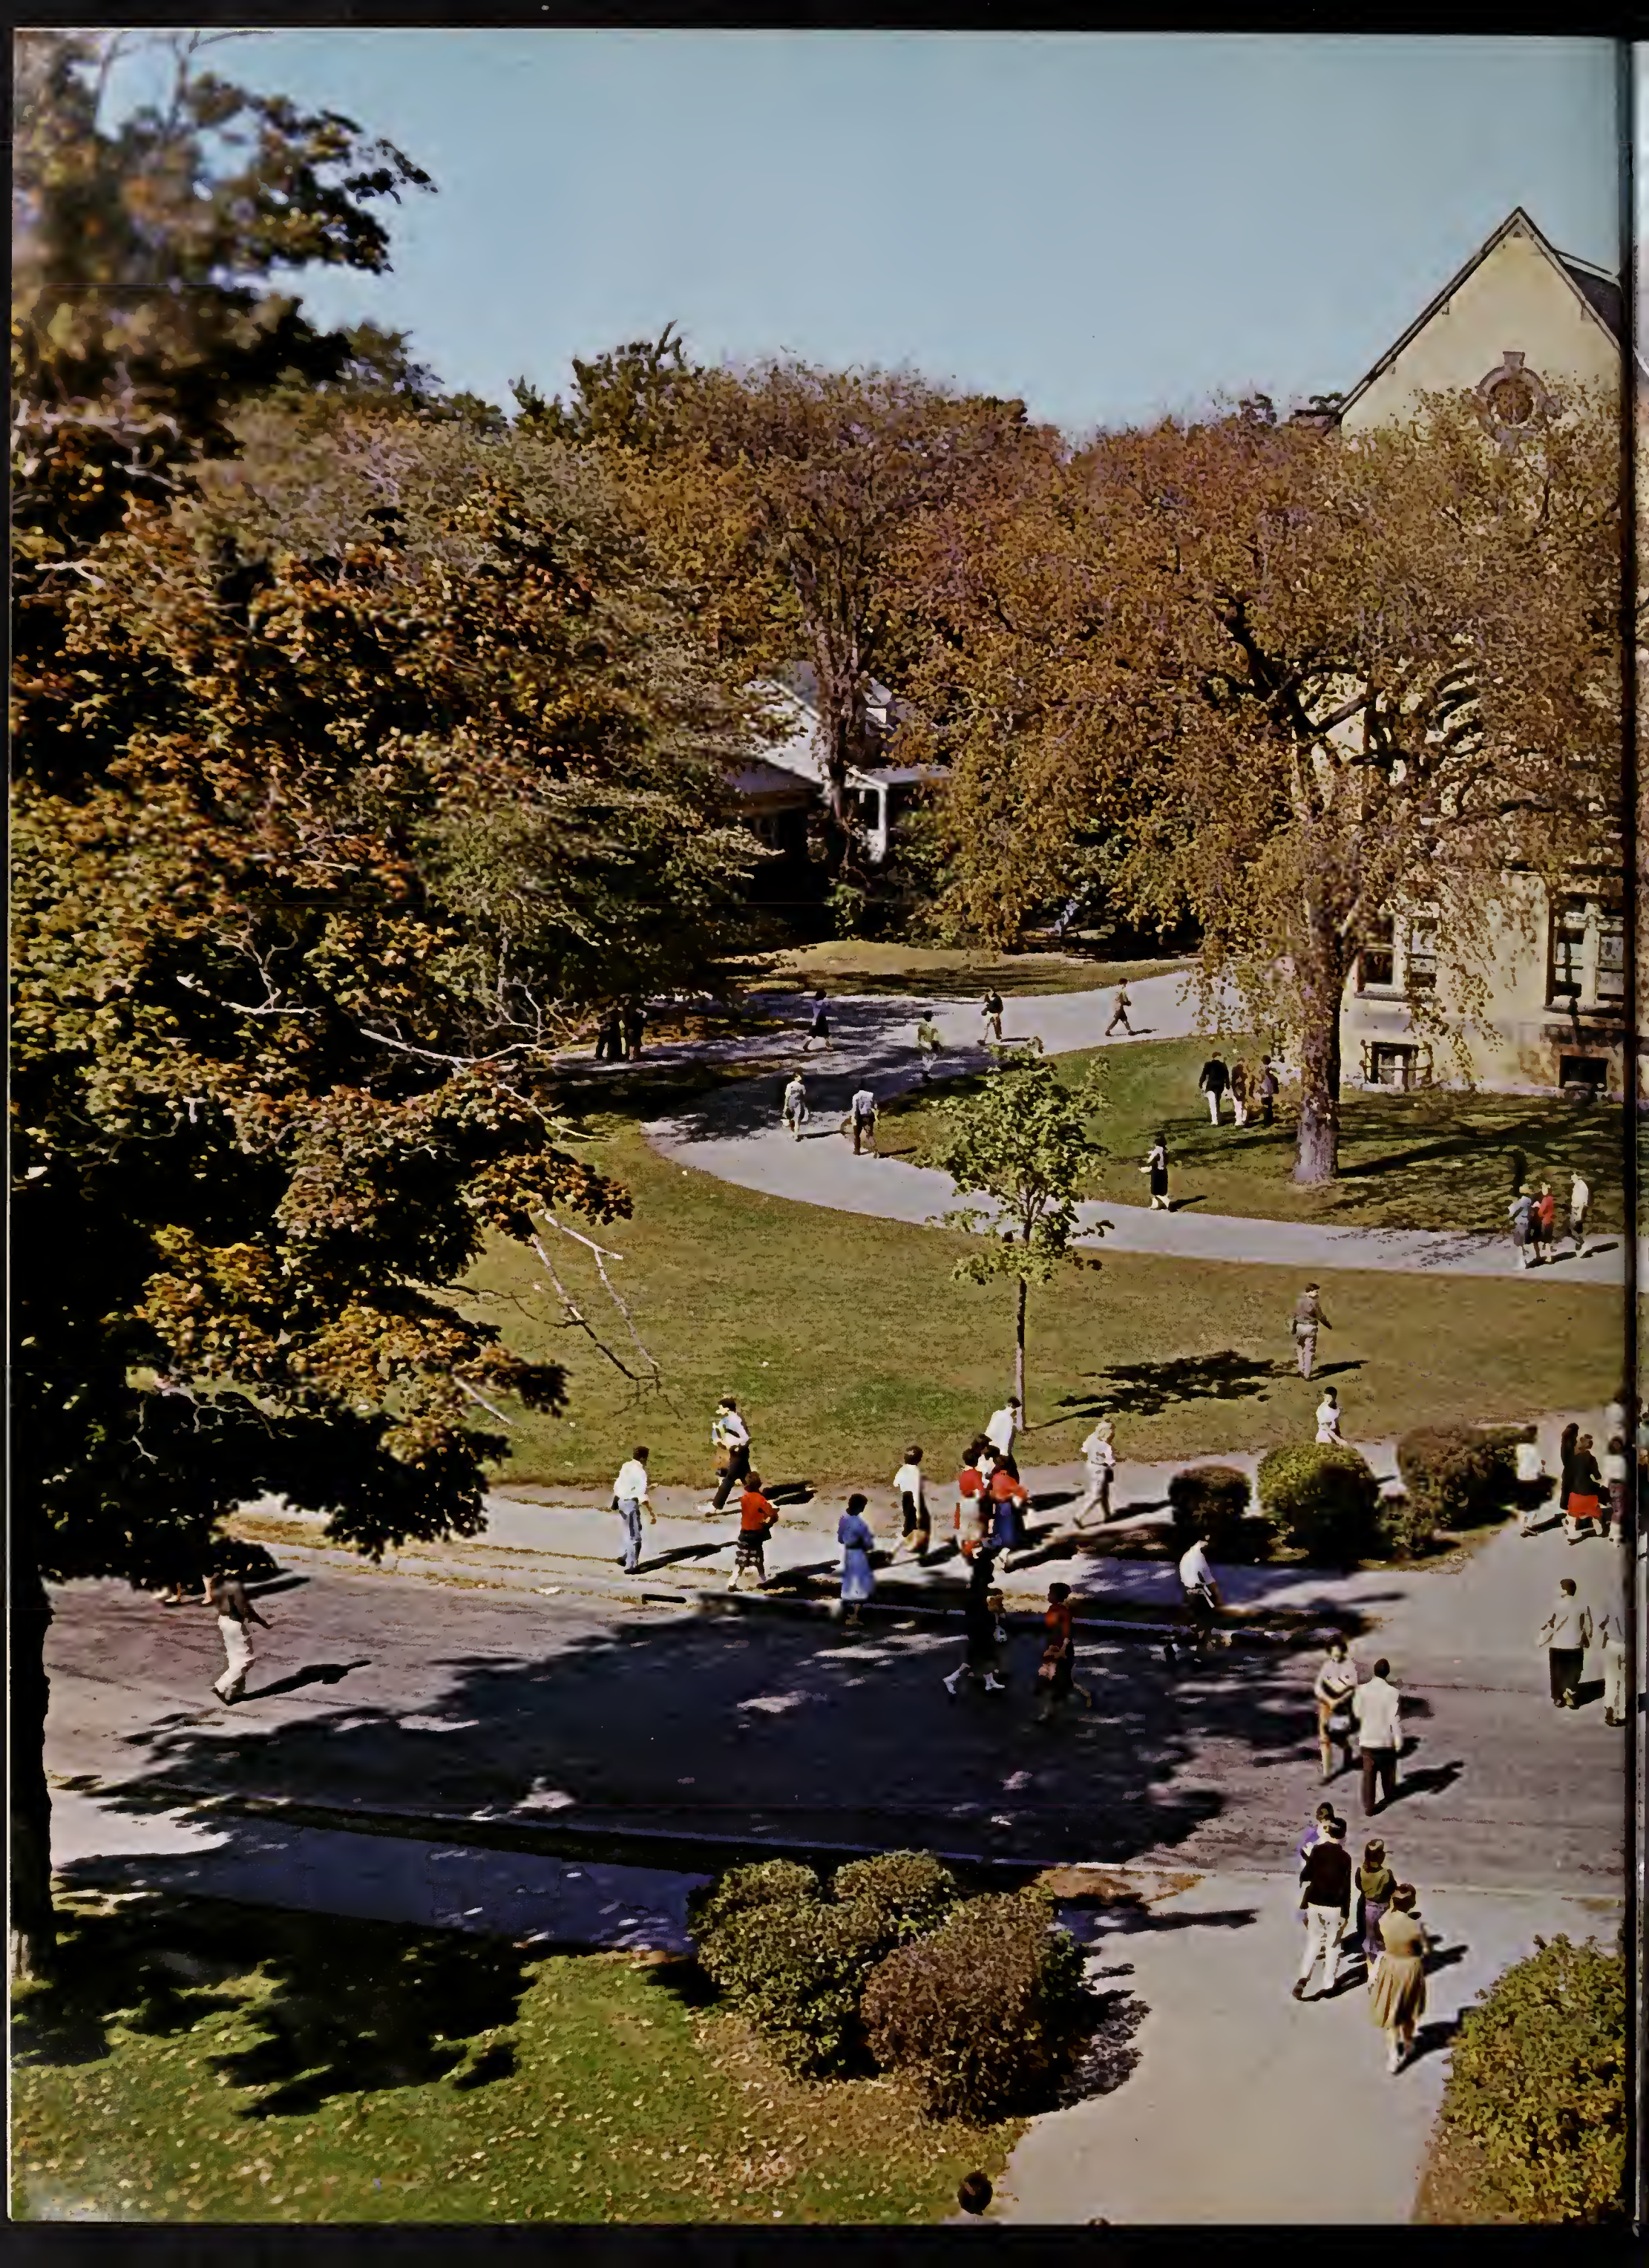

This school year has been a period of readjustment, a period during which we have learned to accept the idea of two high schools. We have done so with the help of responsible modern leaders. It is the hope of the 1961 Newtonian that Newton High School will always have responsible modern leaders and serious modern students. For if we have mature and intelligent leaders and followers, we can make sure that our civilization is a voyage, and that the little world of Newton High School is a leader in the field of education.

THE LITTLE WORLD OF NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

DEDICATION

The proprietor of the little two-chair barber shop around the corner doesn't owe his success to the fifty-two barbers who have worked for him and quit during the past ten years. Nor have transient educators built and maintained the tradition of Newton High School.

Someone has said that experience is the best teacher. He should also have said that the best teacher is experienced.

Teachers have come to Newton High School and left after a year or two. But they will not be remembered. The teachers who leave a permanent impression are those who stay for a while.

It is fitting, therefore, that the Newtonian should express the gratitude of school and community to those teachers whose constancy of purpose has kept them at Newton High School for many years. It is these people who have made Newton High School the outstanding place of learning that it is.

The teachers and administrators pictures on these four pages are those who have been at Newton High School for over twenty years. Many more pages would be necessary to recognize all those who have been here for five, ten, or fifteen years. The teachers pictured are:

Mr. Abner H. Bailey .....	Mathematics
Mr. Lamoine E. Boyle .....	English
Mr. Charles E. Chase .....	Industrial Arts
Mr. Howard L. Ferguson .....	Social Studies
Mr. Francis J. Foster .....	Adams House Housemaster
Mr. John C. Hall .....	Science
Mr. Frederick O. Holmes .....	Social Studies
Mr. E. Victor Knapman .....	Mechanical Drawing
Miss Anne L. Leathers .....	English
Miss Helen B. Lee .....	English
Mr. Kenneth G. Packard .....	Language
Mr. Charles W. Peterson .....	Mathematics
Miss Eleanor B. Richmond .....	Science
Miss Edith M. Rideout .....	Reading Clinic
Mr. Andrew W. Steinhope .....	Business
Miss Elsa W. Stone .....	Bursar
Mr. Carl L. Swan .....	Bacon House Housemaster
Miss Ruth M. Twiss .....	Business
Mr. Daniel P. A. Willard .....	Social Studies

To these men and women the 1961 Newtonian is dedicated, in the hope that many others may follow their example, and find the joy and work of their lives in educating youth.

Mr. Abner H. Bailey

The smiling face of Mr. Abner Bailey is well known at Newton High School. Whether he is teaching math or coaching the cross-country team, his systematic teaching method and jovial sense of humor (which can provide a gentle rib of anything from authors of math books to the workings of the school department) have won him the respect of students, parents, and faculty.

Mr. Lamoine E. Boyle

The versatile, genial Mr. Lamoine Boyle not only excels in his ability to teach English, but also is an ideal leader. He has coached the Newton track teams to victory for many years. Inspiring both athlete and pupil alike, Mr. Boyle advocates success and enjoyment only through hard work, entailing self-discipline and practice.

Mr. Charles E. Chase

Mr. Charles Chase is a teacher for whom no task is too great or too small. Mr. Chase has the rare capacity to do important jobs in a quiet, efficient manner. For years he worked with the stage crew with a minimum of fanfare. Interested in civic as well as in school affairs, Mr. Chase is also active in Newton's annual United Fund Campaign. He is a good citizen and a sincere teacher.

Mr. Howard L. Ferguson

Throughout his years at Newton High School, Mr. Howard Ferguson has been a prominent faculty member as well as an outstanding athletic coach. He has skillfully guided sophomores through world history. In the process of developing many fine ball players, Mr. Ferguson, as varsity baseball coach, has won ten suburban league championships.

Mr. Francis J. Foster

Francis J. Foster is one of the key reasons for the success of the house plan. His friendly smile reveals his desire to know and guide the students of his house. His sincerity is proven by his undertaking to confer with each student personally. He is the kind of housemaster the doctor ordered.

Mr. John C. Hall

John Hall is a dynamic teacher. He stands for a vigorous course in chemistry. He stands for the joy and maturing that come from healthy sport. But most important of all, he stands for a patriotic devotion to the American way of life, a devotion with which he strives to imbue his students.

Mr. Frederick O. Holmes

Following graduation, the students of Mr. Frederick Holmes will thank him for the comprehensive, college-like nature of his teaching. A constant source of amazement to his students is his power to quote extensive passages and reference material from memory. Not only one of the best history teachers, Mr. Holmes is also active in student government affairs. His influence is widely felt.

Mr. E. Victor Knapman

Long after forgetting how to make isometric circles and oblique half-sections, the students who took mechanical drawing will remember Mr. Knapman. His classes are always enjoyable. They are spiced by his witty sarcasm and countless discussions about sports. Mr. Knapman's interest in sports extends to the playing field, where he has coached football, basketball, and baseball.

Miss Anne L. Leathers

The work of Miss Anne Leathers in preparing her students for their varied futures has become a legend at Newton High School. Her far-sighted guidance, "Be logical, concise, and precise," has rescued many a hopeless "Polonius" from circumlocution.

Miss Helen B. Lee

Miss Helen B. Lee's judicious criticism has been helping students to understand literature for many years. Miss Lee always knows the time for humor and the time for seriousness. Her devotion to the written word has made her an important member of our English department.

Miss Eleanor B. Richmond

Miss Eleanor Richmond is most noted for her remarkable orderliness and organization. Not only is her classroom always neat and in excellent condition, but also her lessons and lectures reflect much organization and preparation. Never too busy to help a troubled student, Miss Richmond has made the fascinating world of biology come to life for countless Newton High School pupils.

Mr. Carl L. Swan

As Housemaster of Bacon House, Mr. Carl Swan moved from his building supervisor's office on the first floor of building three to the third floor. Today, under the familiar office sign, students and teachers seek Mr. Swan's ideas and advice. Here Mr. Swan gets to know over three hundred members of Bacon House; here he listens to and assists his students as individuals.

Mr. Daniel P. A. Willard

Mr. Daniel Willard is noted for his ability to keep promises, his great physical prowess, and his devotion to his students. He holds the world record for the fastest time from Grand Central Station to the United Nations lobby. He arrives at school at 6:30 every morning. At 2:45 he coaches rifle practice, or stays to finish more work. He will long be remembered for his conscientiousness.

Mr. Charles W. Peterson

Mr. Charles Peterson is an erudite math teacher with unusual ability to explain complex problems in simple terms. One of his outstanding qualities is his fine sense of humor. His humorous aphorisms remain unchanged from year to year and linger on in the memories of his students. His ability to aid students in their personal problems symbolizes his friendship to all and makes him worthy of this dedication.

Mr. Kenneth G. Packard

Kenneth Packard is too modest to let you know that he is the builder of the German department of Newton High School. But no one who knows him has to be told of the patience and knowledge of human nature that make him a great educator, or of the personality and sense of humor that make him un homme sympathique. It is not an exaggeration to say, Jeder, der ihn kennt, liebt ihn.

Miss Edith M. Rideout

Miss Edith Rideout will long be remembered not only as an English teacher, but also as a valuable friend. For the last fourteen years, Miss Rideout has been head of the Reading Clinic, where her help and interest in her pupils often reach far beyond solving their reading problems. Miss Rideout is also well-known for her preparation of the Atlantic Monthly Study Guide, used in high schools throughout the country.

Miss Elsa W. Stone

Miss Elsa Stone—the epitome of efficiency, individuality, and devotion to service. As a teacher and in later years Bursar, Miss Stone has displayed a unique willingness to serve beyond the call of her regular duties. Miss Stone will always be to students and teachers of Newton the image of a truly self-disciplined and stalwart individual.

Miss Ruth M. Twiss

Miss Ruth Twiss—a name known by pupils, parents and publishers. Miss Twiss is a teacher's teacher, a teacher of boundless energy and enthusiasm. She has given years of unswerving devotion to the young people of Newton, of cheerful helpfulness to new teachers, and of unflagging zeal for the betterment of the profession she loves. This is Miss Twiss: pride of her profession.

GOVERNMENT

ADMINISTRATION

MR. RICHARD W. MECHEM

Our new chief executive, Mr. Mechem, has wasted no time establishing himself as a friend and leader. The Newtonian welcomes him to its pages with the knowledge that his candidness makes him well qualified to insure that the civilization he leads will be an intelligently directed voyage.

DR. CHARLES E. BROWN

MR. MICHAEL B. GRADONE

SCHOOL COMMITTEE

SEATED: Mr. Spencer F. Deming, Mr. Francis P. Frazier, Mrs. Genevieve R. Oncley, Dr. Charles Brown, Mayor Donald L. Gibbs, Mr. Haskell C. Freedman, Mrs. Grace Whitmore. STANDING: Mr. Manuel Beckwith, Mr. Edwin Hawkridge, Mr. Hugh M. Tomb, Mr. Raymond Cook.

ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDANTS

Dr. J. Bernard Everett, Mr. Raymond F. Cook, Dr. Edward Landy, Mr. John E. Gilleland.

SENIORS

ADVISOR

Miss Gianferante

It is perennially the job of the senior class officers to stir up class spirit in a lethargic student body. But this year, the first with a split class, the officers at Newton High had also to coordinate their efforts with those at South High to conjure up a joint enthusiasm for the various class activities. Working with Miss Gianferante, who this year succeeded Miss South as class advisor, and the elected Senior Class Committee, the officers handled the behind-the-scenes aspects of the Senior Supper, dances, the winter carnival and the Prom and pushed the class through a successful year.

JUNIOR S

ADVISOR

Mr. MacDonald

The major purpose of this year's Junior Class, headed by the class committee and advised by Mr. Spencer MacDonald, was to build a social conscience, by planning and organizing several social service projects in which the members of the Junior Class participated. A spirit of enthusiasm was certainly prevalent among the Juniors, since each of these projects met with a great degree of success. This was the first Junior Class to undertake a major project other than the sponsorship of a class ring and a Junior Prom.

The Sophomore Class of 1961 will be the first to complete three years at the "new" old Newton High School. Their main project this year has been to develop school spirit within their own class. The Sophomore Class Committee feels that more publicity is needed to keep students informed about school activities. The Committee is working on the idea of having a sophomore representative from each house to provide the rest of the class members with this information.

The Associates Council, like the rest of the school, has concerned itself with student apathy. Elected to represent student opinion and to formulate laws governing the student body, the Council feels that school spirit goes hand in hand with better publicity of activities. The Associates hope to enlighten students through newly formed Operation SIP, that is Student Interest and Participation Group. This organization will be the basis for a revival of student awareness.

CENTRAL CIVICS COMMISSION

This former anti-smoking committee has come a long way in expanding to its present scope. Now called the Central Civics Commission, this service arm of the Associates Council is concerned mainly with projects that benefit the School and the student body. For example, conducting school elections, ushering for school events, regulating student parking, and improving school grounds have all been main functions of the Central Civics Commission. The Commission, headed by John Bilezikian, consists of each house civics committee chairman, a junior representative from each house, the chairman of the Orange Shield, the vice-president of the Associates, and the faculty advisor, Mr. Gradone.

With money floating around the halls of Newton High School, an organization was needed to oversee the expenditure of this vast nebulous sum. The Finance Commission aids clubs by determining how much money the student organizations are taking in, why they are making money, or why they are losing money. Our economic situation is so well under control that undoubtedly a member of the Newton High School Finance Commission will be asked to join the Harvard team in Washington.

ADAMS HOUSE

Housemaster Foster

HOUSE COUNCIL

Andy Hyde, Kenny Smith, Steve Roser, Ann Pinciss, Suzanne Healy, Carrie Hills, Carolyn Sylvester, Sue Ferguson, Betsy Daniels.

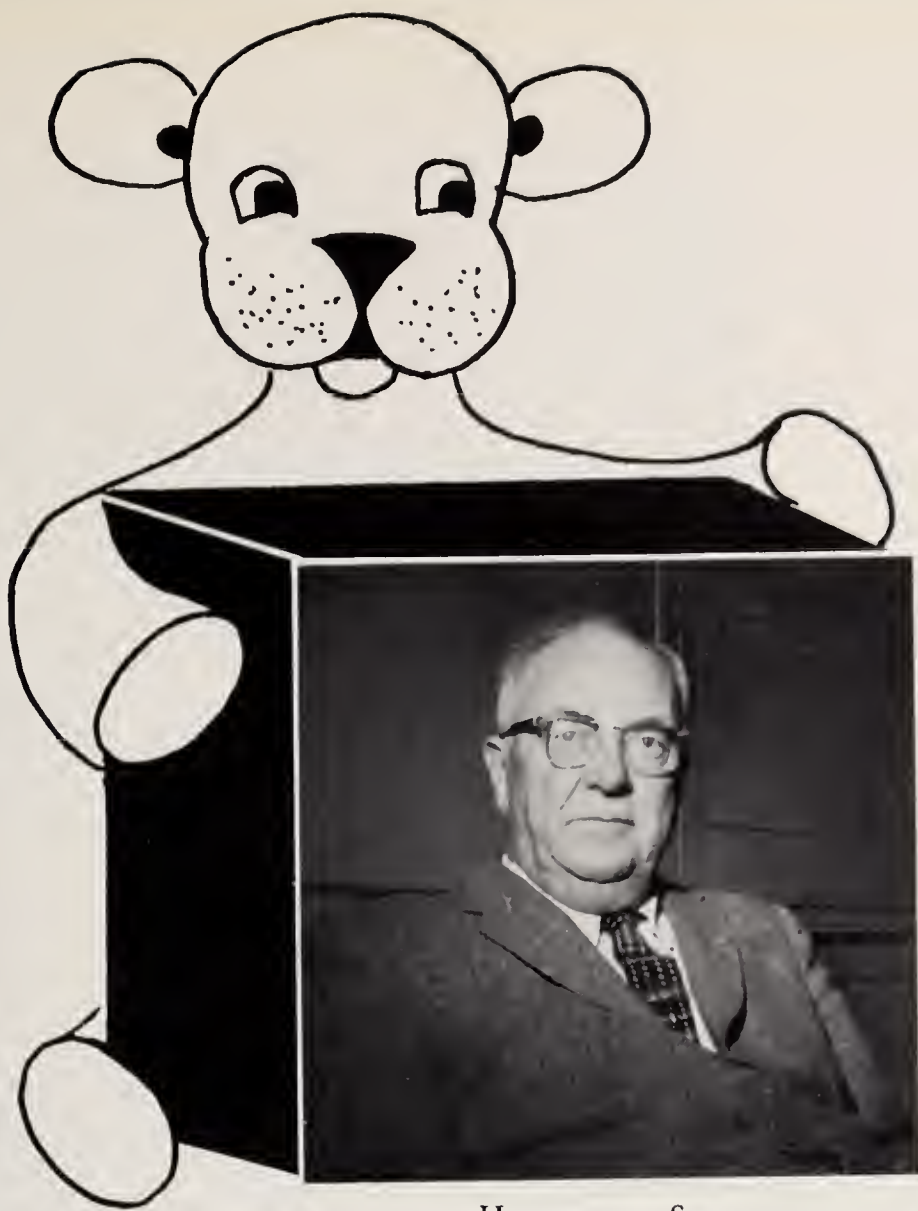

CIVICS COMMITTEE

Neil Grossman, Karen Manners, Scott Silliman, Daniel Kent.

A spirited and friendly atmosphere existed in Adams House this year, and the students soon adapted themselves to the situation. The first major event of the year was a house assembly. Everyone screamed and clapped along with some music played by talented students and was amused by a skit presented by the faculty. All quietly agreed that none of the teachers would ever have to worry about careers in show business. Next on the agenda was a Holiday Party, which was a big success, even though it was planned entirely by students. The high note of the party was a ballroom dancing exhibition by the "old smoothies," Housemaster Foster and Mrs. Chartier. In January Adams House was entertained with Bacon by the always popular Navy Band. The cats were wild over the "cool" hot jazz, but some complained of the lack of cute sailors.

Adams stands at the head of the list of house, not only because it is the only house whose name begins with an "A," but also because of the sincerity of those who lead it: the unbeatable combination of Foster, Chartier, and Russo, Inc.

Housemaster Swan

BACON HOUSE

Bacon House once again proved itself to be the best all-around house this year. The house must be praised for offering the use of its outstanding facilities to the rest of the school. Although there was a charge for admission to the auditorium at times, there was no minimum in the cafeteria, and all health programs in the gyms were given free of charge. A peaceful relationship was maintained with the Main Office, the Principal's Office, the Vice Principal's Office, and the College Records Office, all of which are allowed to stay only if they are good.

Besides helping the school, Bacon took part in many other worthwhile activities. Among these were the Holiday Party, at which Bacon students met Housemaster Swan, Mr. Mechem, and Mr. Gradone; a performance by the fabulous Navy Band; and a decision rendered by the renowned NPITSP Committee. This group, try as it did to find traffic problems similar to those enjoyed by other houses, strongly supported Non-Participation In Traffic Squad Programs. With radical thinking like this, the other houses should watch Bacon House carefully.

Your Key to Success

Barry Civics Committee

Barry House's second year of existence was even more exciting and enthusiastic than the first. The house spirit and morale was centered around the Barry "key to success," replicas of which were available to students.

The first activity of the year was an X-block musical review, "M.C'd" by Housemaster Batchelder. During the review, which was a smashing success, students were urged to buy keys.

Barry House awarded an honor banner to the homeroom with the greatest percentage of students on the honor roll, thus encouraging good scholarship.

Barry's social activities this year were centered around small group "coke" socials. At these parties, which were directed by Mr. Batchelder and the school's most active house council, Barry students had the opportunity to get to know each other well.

The enthusiasm, comradeship, excitement, and spirit of cooperation that exemplify this house have led the whole school to realize that Barry is the best house in Newton High School.

BEALS HOUSE

Housemaster Kesselheim

Rising high above the Walnut Street plain, Kesselheim's castle is an imposing structure of turrets and gables and delicate, wrought iron balconies. Guarded day and night by the little men in the orange arm-bands, the castle is practically impenetrable — unless you know the pass word. The key to the castle is the trite little word "spirit," not rah-rah spirit, but quiet enthusiasm — the kind of spirit that creates and is created by such projects as "The Suspension of Nuclear Armament?", the Ground Improvement Committee (G.I.C.), and "The Beals House Story."

The castle is constructed of several basic building blocks. The corner stone is Mr. A. Donn Kesselheim — a busy, serious administrator with some time and a smile for everyone. The foundation stones are of the Mrs. Boucher variety — warm, efficient, and full of answers. The active House Council is another important block in the castle. Led by Hiram Gordon, the Council has been a veritable debating society and greenhouse for brand new ideas. The Civics Committee, under John Bilezikian, and the Assembly Committee, under Paula Salow, pile up to make the walls reach the sky. The castle is completed by ten students and faculty of the house, for everybody from Demosthenes' hangout in 1450 to Miss Ryan's headquarters in 1320 is an essential building block of Beals House.

PALMER HOUSE

Prince, R. Schutter, M. Dolbier, M. Laserson, S. Tepper, V. West, M. Katz, E. Pettit, L. Best, L. Kopans, B. Overholt, T. Weiskel.

Civics Committee:

Helen Greenberg, Nancy Fine, Karen Stone, Robert Johnson, Eileen Bass, Jeffrey Stone, John Kwitkor, Mrs. Ehmann.

Palmer House is a squirty water bubbler at the top of the stairs and Mrs. Margolin smiling over a paper-laden desk. It is Mrs. Leone straightening her rows and Mrs. Herzog or Mrs. LeClair saying, "Don't worry, we'll take care of your problem." It is a green nebbish on a white pin, Barbara Swanton swinging her pois, and a disorderly meeting in a neat commons room. It is the home of the test tube with its  $\text{NaCl}$  and  $\text{AgNO}_3$  and the recording machine with its bonjour and bonsoir. It is the smile and winking eye of Mr. Hawkes. All this is Palmer House.

Palmer House, under the dynamic leadership of Harold Hawkes, its Housemaster, has become the most enthusiastic and interesting house in Newton High School. A vigorous House Council, led by President Bill O'Connell, has conducted Blitzkrieg attacks on student apathy and corrected many kinks in the kogs of Newton High. Led by President Nancy Fine and advisor Mrs. Ehmann, the Civics Committee has sponsored, among other projects, a sparkling Christmas Party. Palmer House has certainly come a long way since the days of 2200 study hall and the Building two office.

House Council:

AT TABLE: Kenneth Cummings, President; Milton Tatelman, Vice President. SEATED: Jerry Creem, Larry Bowen, Fred Davis, Nancy Ross, David Fox, Ginny Haglestein, Myron Cohen, Peter Wish, Lois Marchand.

The reason that Riley House is known as Newton High School's most active and admired "sixth" is not the fine Riley faculty, the energetic Riley students, the noticeable Riley spirit, the Riley loyalty to the school, or the inferiority of the other houses, but actually a combination of all these factors. Such outstanding events as The Cora Riley Portrait Presentation Assembly, The Riley House Alumni Day, and the Riley House homeroom receptions could never have been accomplished without the excellent work of Miss Johnson and her capable staff. The remarkable spirit of Riley House students produced the famous "Smiley Riley Day," the sale of Riley's leprechaun badges and those delicious "Golden Crumbles," and the impressive bulletin board and commons room displays. However, in a conducive environment of "every house for itself," the "Riley family" truly demonstrated its superiority by showing school loyalty. Unselfishly operating Newton High School's lost-and-found department certainly exemplified Riley's more mature attitude toward the house plan system. Always first and always ahead is Riley House, where growth is never measured by time, but by achievement.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

The purpose of the Industrial Arts Department is to train young men of high school age for careers in engineering and industry. Industrial Arts students learn basic machine operations and manual crafts. Additional courses are offered in stage design, construction, and operation; these are primarily avocational in emphasis.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Innovation, mechanical aids, quiet dedication: these words form the heart of Newton High School's Business Department. This year a unique system of electronic teaching aids was installed, thus further adding to the variety of excellence to be found in this department.

GUIDANCE DEPARTMENT

SEATED: Miss MacIntyre, Mr. Mitchell, Mrs. Herzog.

STANDING: Mr. Huchet, Mr. Grainger, Miss Finnerty, Mr. Clark.

The primary purpose of the Guidance Department, under the supervision of Mr. Robert Mitchell, has not been to plan the student's future, but rather to help the student make his own decisions. Forced to work under the ever-increasing tensions of college admission, the department has, nevertheless, again proved itself invaluable to the Senior Class.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

How many students realize that Home Economics is actually a science course? This science of the home offers study not only in the expected cooking and sewing areas, but also in house management, child care, first aid, and home nursing. An innovation this year in the cooking classes, one which is expected to end presently, is the baking done for faculty meetings and for house masters. It gives one a feeling of reverence to think that a faculty member might be partaking of the novice attempts of a future John of the Waldorf.

DRIVER EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

The Driver Education Department has the awesome responsibility of setting young drivers on the "road to safety." Unfortunately, the "road to safety" is not always the fastest. Mr. Weist and his associates do their best to impress this upon their heavy-footed students.

Mr. Edward Weist, Mr. Frank Toscano.

FIRST ROW: Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Abrahams, Mrs. Merrill. MISSING: Mrs. Trowbridge, Mrs. Turnbull.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

Each day more than 150 students make use of the 10,000 books and 55 magazines in the Newton High School Library. Two new rooms have been added to the library this year. One is a storage room for back numbers of magazines in which Newton High students can make use of the important material available only in periodicals. In the other room groups of students can talk and work together while silence is maintained in the rest of the library. The librarians estimate that Newton High students have bought over seven thousand paper back books this year.

After the fine begins to mount up, or a slip comes from the office, you decide to return The Many Loves of Alfred E. Neuman. You walk into the library, pay the fine, and think that the librarian will put the book back on the shelf for another hungry intellectual to devour the second you walk out. But you have just started a very complex process. First, the librarian picks up the book. Second, a library assistant eagerly takes it from her, gives it the once over, and scientifically hunts down its exact location. Third, after all this careful work, the library assistant asks the librarian where the book goes. The assistants, in addition to shelving books, also handle the library's mail and periodicals (Research I, Newton Plan, junior year), and bring around those library slips which begin a process (too complicated to describe) which tabulates its results on white-colored cards.

The library assistants are a great help to you in the library, because while they are doing chores for the librarian, she is free to help you in your work.

NEWTON TECHNICAL

MR. SWITZER
Director

MR. BRAUN
Guidance Counselor

One of the lights suspended from the ceiling of the study hall sparked and flickered out. The study hall teacher, a nervous person to say the least, was quite upset by the defective lamp, and, fearing an explosion, she decided to send to the Technical High School for help. "You run down to Mr. Braun and tell him to send an emergency crew up here before we are all blown to bits," she ordered White-Card Willie, who sits in the corner and talks. Off went Willie, and soon two angels from heaven in brown tool belts arrived on the scene.

After a brief consultation, the two experts from Tech High removed two screws and revealed the involved mechanism of the light switch. One boy shrugged and gave a tug at a peculiar-looking wire, and another lamp went out. (The nervous study hall teacher frowned.) The other boy shrugged too and yanked at a little blue wire next to the peculiar-looking one, and the last two lights went out. (The study hall teacher growled perceptively.) The two boys ran like Dick Carle.

The truth was they knew nothing about electric wires (they were from the print shop), but they had hoped to recruit some girls in the study hall to join the Technical High School, which has everything in the world—except women.

However, there are plenty of boys in Tech High who know something about electricity. You see, just recently, in recognition of the changing business world, the Newton Technical High School reorganized its curriculum. The old courses were expanded to provide more efficient training in craftsmanship. New courses were introduced to fill new demands of the industrial world. For the more ambitious and qualified student, advanced post high school courses were set up. Plans are being made for more changes next year. Things are really being accomplished on the lower floors of Building II.

IN MEMORIAM

WARREN M. SWITZER

Director, Newton Technical High School — 1957-1961

Faculty Member, Newton Technical High School — 1934-1957

Quietly and modestly Warren Switzer, for four years, directed the ramified activities of the Newton Technical High School. But for all of the twenty-seven years of his connection with the school he influenced the quality and scope of its development. He set up and taught the general vocational division until it became absorbed into the Technical High School. He introduced the course in drafting; he promoted the creation of the integrated academic and technical course, or III-T, and of the cooperative course, in which especially competent students alternate a week of classroom instruction with one of paid employment. He was a pioneer in the formation, on the secondary school level, of a course in advanced technical education for which able students may enroll, either during their high school years or in the thirteenth and fourteenth post-graduate period. Because he was keenly aware of the nation-wide demand for technicians, he introduced a summer school course in electronics, made additions to his faculty, and prepared a new catalogue to present the exceptional training offered by the Newton Technical High School.

Such leadership rested on a firm foundation of diversified training and experience. Mr. Switzer had studied at Lowell Technical Institute, the General Electric School, Springfield College, Fitchburg Teachers' College, Boston University, and won a fellowship to the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Before coming to Newton he had been a shop foreman and a teacher; shortly after his coming here he became an instructor of teacher and of foreman training for the State Department of Education. During World War II, for the War Manpower Commission, he coordinated classes at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Northeastern University and ten Greater Boston schools with the Watertown Arsenal.

Yet, it is for his personality, even more than for his accomplishments, that Warren Switzer is honored and esteemed. Essentially he was considerate, friendly and devoted to his profession. His students recognized his understanding and his competence; they responded with loyalty to the example he set them. His staff was encouraged by his friendly personal regard and by his professional alertness to technological advances to conceive and to test instructional innovations. His concentration, even during weeks of illness, upon plans for the future of the school was an inspiration. To each person with whom he came into contact, Warren Switzer gave something of his own faith and courage.

As an instructor and as an administrator he contributed markedly to the advancement and prestige of technical education on the secondary school level. But it is for his courtesy, loyalty, kindness, and strength that he is respected and loved.

SEATED: Mr. Malone, Miss Richmond, Dr. Navez, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Booth. STANDING: Mr. Bodman, Mr. Silluzio, Mr. Lent, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Dorgan, Mr. Hall, Mr. Rist, Mr. Seltzer.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

The Science Department has prepared and conducted several successful experiments this year. Noticing the success of the ever-expanding Newton Plan program in biology, the department correctly hypothesized that the same program would be fruitful in Chemistry. In a second experiment, highly talented students, advanced work in the physical sciences, and outstanding teaching were brought together; the resulting reaction produced the Physical Science Seminar Class. With the use of much new apparatus, the Science Department has advanced in its study of the student and of teaching methods.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

"Mr. Hall," said the girl calmly, "I think we are going to set the building on fire." "Oh?" replied Mr. Hall. "You see," she continued, "we were in the other lab because we didn't want to annoy the rest of the club with the odor of hydrogen sulfide, and we had this generator, and it started to back up, and there was sulfuric acid, and I couldn't get the window open, and I, I put it on the A.C.-D.C. outlet, and it's going fssss, fssss, fssss . . ." Mr. Hall calmly arose, reached for a bottle of ammonium hydroxide, strode deliberately into the other lab, and poured the base over the outlet. The socket blew and the danger was over.

As this story indicates, students in the Chemistry Club learn calmness and presence of mind in the face of dangerous chemical reactions. This year the club was divided into four groups, each of which did research and experiments on an assigned topic. The topics were: The Chemistry of Corn, The Chemistry of Sawdust, The Analysis of an Unknown Sample of Mineral, and the Physical Chemistry of Starch. All profited greatly from the opportunity to do original experiments, and one group even attempted to distill moonshine.

PHYSICS CLUB

If the Russians should get a man to the moon, there's no call for alarm — not as long as the Newton High School Physics Club exists. With fifteen members (and one girl!) this stalwart group entertains visitors from community and university who share their knowledge of the science world with eager young minds. The club advisor predicts great things for the club in the future. Just what great things he is not sure. But isn't that half the fun?

CHESS CLUB

The keynote of the club this year was informality. The first, second, and third Thursdays of every month were ruthlessly eliminated as the club wildly chose any day of the week for its savage mental encounters. At these meetings the ten best boards were casually selected to comprise the Chess Team, which reluctantly agreed to compete regularly on Fridays, although there was some grumbling about the evils of conformity. As a parting thought, it is worth noting that this club stuck to its individualistic ways by rescheduling meetings rather than cancelling them.

METEOROLOGY CLUB

Plagued by low-pressure systems, the Meteorology Club has, nevertheless, continued to fearlessly predict the local weather, and with a surprising degree of accuracy. Not only does this club talk about the weather, but in the near future it plans to do something about it. With new equipment, which is being built, it hopes to observe the sun consistently, and possibly to investigate the effect of sun spots on the earth's weather.

RADIO CLUB

The hams have banded together: that is, the ham radio operators. (For a more complete listing of hams see Drama Club, etc.) The organization is formally called the Radio Club. It is more than the name implies, however. Its members take a serious interest in the complexities of all phases of electronics. Headed by faculty member Orrin Braunn, the club maintains an amateur radio station and conducts technical discussions concerning all areas of the electronics field. These students are more than hams.

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

SEATED: Mrs. Ford, Miss Small, Mr. Ferguson, Miss Creehan, Mrs. Carpenter. STANDING: Mr. Bailey, Mr. Peterson, Mr. Bowman, Mr. Stephens, Mr. Jacobson, Mr. Barndt, Mr. Shapiro.

Officials predict that it will take the Newton Free Library several years to convert to the Dewey Decimal System. The modernization of a high school mathematics program, though not quite so complicated, is also a gradual process. 1960-1961 saw Newton High School well on its way, however, and Mr. Ferguson hopes that next year all Curriculum I courses will be taught from modern textbooks. Students taking UICSM math have had their fun laughing at Dick Zilch and Zabbranchburg High School, but they and those in the SMS program agree that they have greatly profited from the more modern approach to mathematics offered to them. Although there are not enough textbooks to change Curriculum II over to the modern approach next year, teachers will constantly be bringing new ideas into the classroom. In the meantime, the gradual purchase of textbooks and the training of teachers will continue. The goals of the department are clear; fulfillment is coming soon.

ALPHA GAMMA TAU

The most outstanding achievement of the Math Club this year, excluding its always exciting elections, was its lecture course on the slide rule. This course, compiled and taught by students, covers the history and the logarithmic theory of the slide rule, and the use of the rule in performing the simple operations, that is, multiplication, division, and combinations of the two, reciprocals, proportion, squares and square roots, cubes and cube roots, and gauge point and inverted slide operations. Newton Plan projection material was used, and a special transparent slide rule enabled the group of students to watch on the screen the operations performed by the lecturer. After the series was over, the club evaluated the course and revised it for use next year, in the hope that it would become a standard Math Club project. The course is designed for students of math, chemistry, and physics.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

Innovations in the foreign language department include courses in Russian, third and fourth year courses in German, and the language lab, an electronic classroom where students work individually with tape recorders. The purpose of the language lab is to help students develop their ability to speak the language they are learning in class. Students are given oral assignments which they complete during study periods at the lab.

This year the department has been working on plans for more advanced courses on the high school level. These courses will be designed for students who have begun the study of a foreign language in elementary school or in the seventh or eighth grade. Newton students cannot complain that they have little to choose from in the way of languages; they are offered French, Latin, Spanish, German, and Russian.

FRENCH CLUB

Amidst croissant and champagne (ginger ale in champagne bottles), the Cercle Francais has had a very intoxicating year. A revolution took place at the first meeting when Jeff Prince, president, and Mr. Norman Gaudet, advisor, tried to conduct the whole meeting in French. Although the accent was sometimes on the wrong syllable, the members felt that the change gave more purpose to the club. Later in the year the Associates Council was baffled when presented with a constitution entirely in French which had to be ratified.

Included among the activities of the club were a "Trip to Paris," dinner at a local French restaurant, and a "Visit with Maurice Chevalier." A drama festival was held in January that included three hilarious French skits. The Cercle Francais is a little bit of France — that is, Gaullic laughter and French culture — transported to Newton High School.

SPANISH CLUB

The secret pass word ("The rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain . . .") is spoken in a hushed whisper, and the gypsy guards let you in the room where "Carmen" Fox conducts her Spanish Club meetings. Unless you speak Spanish, you won't understand what's going on, so don't even bother to learn the password. But with a little knowledge of Don Juan's tongue, you will see amazing sights: twenty or thirty selected students of Iberian culture sitting in fascination watching a film or a speaker or a live play — all in their second tongue.

Although the Spanish Club decided to cancel its annual Christmas party this year, it has been one of the most active clubs in the school. Its activities have ranged from making its new advisor, Mr. DeFelix, feel at home to discovering why the rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain. (Something to do with air currents and mountain chains.) Past President Kenny Galner summed up the year's activities in one word: "Olé!"

RUSSIAN CLUB

Zdravstveetye, said Boris to Natasha. Is time for a Russian Club meeting, and off the two comrades went. Exciting meetings they were this year, for the Russian Club has been very busy. First, arrangements had to be made for the purchase of a silver tea set for newlywed club advisor, Mrs. Linton-Smith. Then there was the program for the P.T.S.A., and a second program to present to the Junior High Schools in the hope of getting empty young teen-agers interested in filling their lives with Slavic history, culture, and language.

Sometimes President Judy Blevis allowed her comrades to take a moment's relaxation by arranging meetings with speakers and slides of Russia. Dedicated to the proposition that you have to know them to beat them, this year's Russian club has brought us just that much closer to winning the cold war.

LATIN CLUB

If you see a student walking about Newton High School's corridors looking like the ghost of Caesar, do not panic. Undoubtedly the toga-sporting individual is a member of the Latin Club, an organization determined to prove that Latin is not a dead language. Slides and movies about Rome, guest speakers, and field trips are on the club's agenda. So if you see someone in sandals, remember: when in Latin Club, do as the Romans did.

THIRD ROW: Lillian Rich, Nancy Greenman, Susan Levine, Diane Fisher, Ruthie Sagoff, Eileen Bass, Maylynn Blaustein, Judy Lambert, Nancy Fine.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

Following the pattern of progress recurrent throughout the history of civilizations the Social Studies Department has built extensively on its already firm foundation. An honors system in American history has been added to supplement the advanced placement program; last year's series of lectures in United States history has been integrated with the class work; several tutorial courses have been initiated. The department has not ignored the importance of contemporary history. The new area studies class offers a specialized treatment of the happenings in certain critical areas of today's world. This vast structure of courses is itself supplemented by a program of field trips to the United Nations, the International Relations Conference at M. I. T. and the model United Nations at Dana Hall.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

The International set holds a soiree every third Thursday, usually at the home of the charming Madame Wofford (advisor). It's first gathering included on the hand-picked guest list (after the dues were handed over, the treasurer picked them up and added the donors' names to the list) Dr. David Stowe. Dr. Stowe spoke enthusiastically of his experiences as a missionary in China before the Red crowd vulgarized the social atmosphere with its proletarian values. At a later get-together the topic of conversation was the dating habits of the aborigines in various foreign lands visited by some members of the group (exchange students) on their last cruise.

"A favorite topic amongst Madame Wofford's guests," said Mr. William Albert, butler (president) to the Woffords, "is the problem of nationalism in Africa. Madame Wofford 'ad an 'arvard professor down from Boston who spoke about the topic and for the next two gatherings the set could talk of nothing else. Got out of 'and when some of the guests wanted to invite down Mr. Lumumba (you know — of the Leopoldville Lumumbas) and General Mabutu for a refereed discussion of their individual viewpoints, but Madame put 'er foot down. Last I 'eard of them they were all sailing off on a Portuguese liner — for Brazil.*" On the whole, it has been a fine season for the international set.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Every student at Newton High School comes into continuous contact with the English Department. This department might be more correctly called a humanities department, for the scope of its activities includes much more than the pedagogue's concept of instruction in English grammar. The student gets not only a course in his native language and literature, but a smattering of history, philosophy, and the arts. There are no pedants in the English Department; they have been replaced by such illustrious personages as Mr. John Harris, Miss Anne Leathers, and Mrs. Miriam Goldstein. Here is a colorful and lively department.

TUSITALA

The word Tusitala strikes fear into the heart of the most confident writer. This literary club, whose members are selected for their writing ability, is the ideal place for a frustrated student. A manuscript is read before the anxious members, and then they are invited to criticize their fellow-student's writing. Thus, one can release all his frustrations on another's literary endeavor. Yet the author who finds his manuscript trampled and torn by his contemporaries remains complacent. For he knows his turn will come!

DEBATING SOCIETY

My mother said to me, "If you want to argue so much, why don't you join a Debating Club?" So I did.

I paid my dues and started getting those little notes from the secretary. It was on the second Thursday of the month that we gathered in the little amphitheatre, 1350. At each meeting we argued about the same topic: Should the United Nations be significantly strengthened or not? When we had argued among ourselves long enough to warm up, we started formal debates with other schools. Potential Daniel Websters from Brookline High, Melrose High, and Waltham High found themselves butting and rebutting behind our rickety podium. Shall the U. N. be strengthened? Pros and cons; pros and cons. And in the end we were no nearer to an answer than when we began. But Mr. Prentiss (advisor) and Steve Greenblatt (president) were happy, and I found out why just the other day.

You see, we had learned to debate—to think logically and then to express our logical thoughts. The other day my mother and I had a minor skirmish concerning the use of the car Saturday night. I trounced her. When I finished my first five-minute speech, she gave a weak rejoinder. But she collapsed entirely under my rebuttal. It was resolved: I should have the car Saturday night. Thank you, Mr. Prentiss, Mr. Greenblatt, and my worthy opponents.

DRAMA

Despite the usual late-arriving sophisticated audience, Newton's eighth annual Drama Festival managed to begin—and only twenty-five minutes after it was supposed to. Once the show was under way, however, the huge audience was treated to the best festival in at least the past three years.

The first play was Andre Obey's Noah, an unfortunate choice for a high school audience. The cast did a commendable job with the difficult script, however, and the result was interesting, if not spectacular.

After a brief intermission, the festival continued with South High's presentation of Our Hearts Were Young and Gay. The rising of the curtain was accompanied by wildly enthusiastic yells from the southerners present, yells which struck fear into the hearts of the other members of the bipartisan audience. The play was far from a letdown; in fact, we are forced to admit that we laughed throughout, despite our efforts to sabotage the enemy attack. Memorable lines include the parting remark of Otis Skinner, who said to the two girls, "Give us a call as soon as you arrive, if that won't be too much of a strain on your emancipation!" and Dick's devastating complaint addressed to Emily, "You have a knack for hitting things right on the head." The play on the whole was a sheer delight, but we wonder how it escaped Boston censorship.

FESTIVAL

The final play, Louis N. Parker's Disraeli, which again came after a brief intermission, was greeted by wildly enthusiastic yells from the northerners present, unsure, neurotic yells, but fear-striking yells, which probably outdid those of the southerners (we say probably because this author experienced a temporary attack of deafness resulting from the screeching whistles of the person sitting behind him). The yells were not in vain. The audience was awe-struck by the greatest piece of high school dramatic acting seen in a long time. Rave ratings that might be applied by critics follow (the absence of the three small dots,

". . .", is due to the desire on the part of the Newtonian to without bias avoid suits, though not to necessarily avoid split infinitives): "supurb interpretation," "perfect timing," "for once, not overdone," "tastefully selected gestures," "successful maintenance of mood," "authentic accents," "expert casting and directing," "tensely dramatic from beginning to end," and finally, "almost professional."

The judges, headed by Mr. Paul Barstow of Wellesley College, were impressed, and rightly so. Disraeli took the grand prize. The award winning performers were as follows: Judith Bates (Sella) and Richard Blocker (Noah) from Noah; Barbara Goodbar (Emily), Priscilla Kanter (Winifred Blaugh), and Janet Mullen (Mrs. Skinner) from Our Hearts Were Young and Gay; and Victor Aronow (Benjamin Disraeli), Linda Dahl (Clarissa), Robert Factor (Mr. Hugh Meyers), Nancy Frieman (Mrs. Travers), and Jeffrey Hahn (Bascot) from Disraeli.

Did you attend the Drama Festival? If you didn't, you missed an exciting evening. Mr. Spink and Miss Ryan again presented a memorable program.

"Well, Ladies and Gentlemen, here we are backstage at the New England Drama Festival. It is opening night, and the air is vibrating with tension and excitement. Actors are dashing back and forth in their costumes, and members of the stage crew are transporting props onto the stage. Why, there is Milton Tatelman, president of the NHS Drama Club."

"Mr. Tatelman, I wonder if you could tell us what part the Drama Club played in the preparation of the stupendous festival."

"Certainly, dahling. The Drama Club has arranged for housing, programming, and hospitality for the guests . . . Dick, be careful how you swing that table . . . As I was saying, the Drama Club has been very active this year as always. We had a speaker from the Boston University School of Drama, we had a theatre party and symposium with the cast of All My Sons, we've had combined meetings with South High, and, of course, . . . Dick, please watch where you're swinging that chair, . . . and, of course, we've . . . Ahh!!!"

"Mr. Tatelman, are you all right?" (Don't worry, he's only temporarily unconscious.) "Dick, you should be more careful when you're carrying those props."

STAGE CREW

The audience hushes, lights dim, the curtain rises, and the stage lights reveal an elaborate set; all the drama of a school play would not be possible without the often forgotten efforts of the stage crew. This select group of hard-working students is responsible for set arrangement, the operation of electrical equipment, and several other essential jobs. Unheralded, but essential, the stage crew deserves its own round of applause.

The Art Department has devised two programs which cover the needs of students interested in art at the high school level. For those who want a comprehensive course, there is the Art Appreciation course, which gives students a basic understanding of such arts as sculpture, painting, and architecture. For those expecting to go into professional art, Mr. Schultz teaches a three-year program which gives excellent preparation for good art schools. The three-year sequence deals first with the specifics of visual fundamentals, then with commercial arts, and finally with graphic arts.

Mr. Nelson, Mr. Schultz.

ART DEPARTMENT

ART CLUB

FIRST ROW: J. Meyer, G. Wellock. SECOND ROW: C. Antonellis, R. Levine, M. Paul, M. Monahan, F. Aronow, J. Mullen, Mr. Nelson.

This year, led by Mr. Nelson, the Art Club visited several museums and a stained glass window works. The purpose of the club is to allow students to see and understand more about art than they can by themselves. The group observed various works and asked Mr. Nelson to explain them. Art appreciation classes were invited to several meetings.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT

SEATED: Mr. Godfrey, Miss Seaver. STANDING: Mr. Remley, Mr. Lasker, March.

The Music Department, with the purpose of bringing music to as many students as possible, truly has something for everyone. In addition to the two-year sequence in Music Theory and Harmony, during the second year of which students write original musical compositions, the department offers Music Appreciation, Music in Everyday Living, and Ensemble, a class which plays chamber music. It also sponsors an A Cappella Choir, a Girls' Chorus, a Mixed Chorus, a Madrigal singing group, a Marching Band, a Concert Band, an Orchestra, and, of course, a Music Club. Two evenings of music were held this year, vespers, and a spectacular Music Night in which all performing groups appeared. Next year the department will join with the Art, Drama, and Dance departments to get together a course which will in one semester give students a look at General Humanities.

MUSIC CLUB

Contrary to popular belief, one does not have to be talented to join the Music Club. Anyone who is interested in music can join this club. Those talented musicians, the Johnny Brothers and the Walley-Jacksons, among others, help provide entertainment. By February of this year the club had presented two student concerts and an X-block assembly. In the latter, the club members and guests from Bacon and Barry Houses thrilled to the artistry of eight-year-old Lisa Goldman, child prodigy. Lisa joined the Newton High School Orchestra in the first movement of the Beethoven Piano Concerto Number Two. Then, after a question period which was obviously intended to prepare Lisa for a future appearance on This Is Your Life, she concluded the program with the Rondo Capriccioso. This concert represents just another exciting musical experience brought to Newton High School by Mr. Lasker's Music Club.

VESPERS

ORCHESTRA

If in your journeys through the lower regions of Building Two, you hear a repeated "cuckoo" note or a rather masculine soprano voice accompanying scattered pianissimo plunks, do not be alarmed. It is only the orchestra rehearsing Haydn's "Toy Symphony" or Verdi's "Il Trovatore" (with Mr. March as soloist). Although the orchestra this year was the smallest in memory, under Mr. March's leadership it became perhaps the best. Since only the most dedicated musicians seemed able to resist the encroachments of advanced placement scheduling, the quality of individual musicians combined with sectional rehearsals and varied repertoire to make this orchestra a musically exciting experience.

DANCE BAND

The Newton High Dance band is something of an official school band for Tigeramas and dances. A small band, it is comprised of a selected group of student musicians directed by Mr. Godfrey. Because of some reorganization this year the band did not get into full swing (we hope that is the right word) until late in the winter when it came to liven up a Tigerama. Our dance band plays good dance music; it even swings when it wants to.

M. Morrison, B. Karp, D. Friedman, B. White, E. Evans, D. Drourr, R. Williams, R. Sellech, N. Cobb, Mr. Godfrey.

MARCHING BAND

J. Houston, R. Fiumara, C. Maguire, G. Shaw, B. DeSantis, B. Swanton, C. Thurston, M. Neiman, L. Werman, B. Thurston, M. Calk, J. Jordan, C. Robinson, B. Murray, B. Gath, D. Neilson, R. Fierro, D. Friedman, B. White, P. Mersky, H. Shafron, M. Addelson, R. Williams, J. Pierce, J. Callanan, M. Himmelfarb, J. Umina.

The Newton High School marching band, under the direction of Mr. Godfrey, enjoyed an undefeated season — something unique this year. The band strutted through their half-time formations and assisted at the pre-game rallies throughout the fall season. Incidentally, the marching band claims the most devoted membership of any comparable organization: the players must practice on the football field from 7:30 A.M. to 8:15 A.M.

CONCERT BAND

After a first year of self-orientation, Mr. Godfrey, the director of the concert band, guided his musicians through a year of increased activity. The concert band played at a number of elementary schools in the city, participated in a reciprocal exchange of concerts with Wellesley High School, and culminated the year at the Northeastern Music Festival. This inter-school competition is the climax of a high school musician's year. Newton annually does an excellent job. We were well represented this year.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR

Handel's Messiah Chorus and Howe's Battle Hymn of the Republic are but two songs in the varied repertoire of the A Cappella Choir. The choir's activities are familiar to Newton High students, for it frequently participates in school assemblies. About two hundred voices have joined in the A Cappella Choir to produce an excellent and much appreciated singing group.

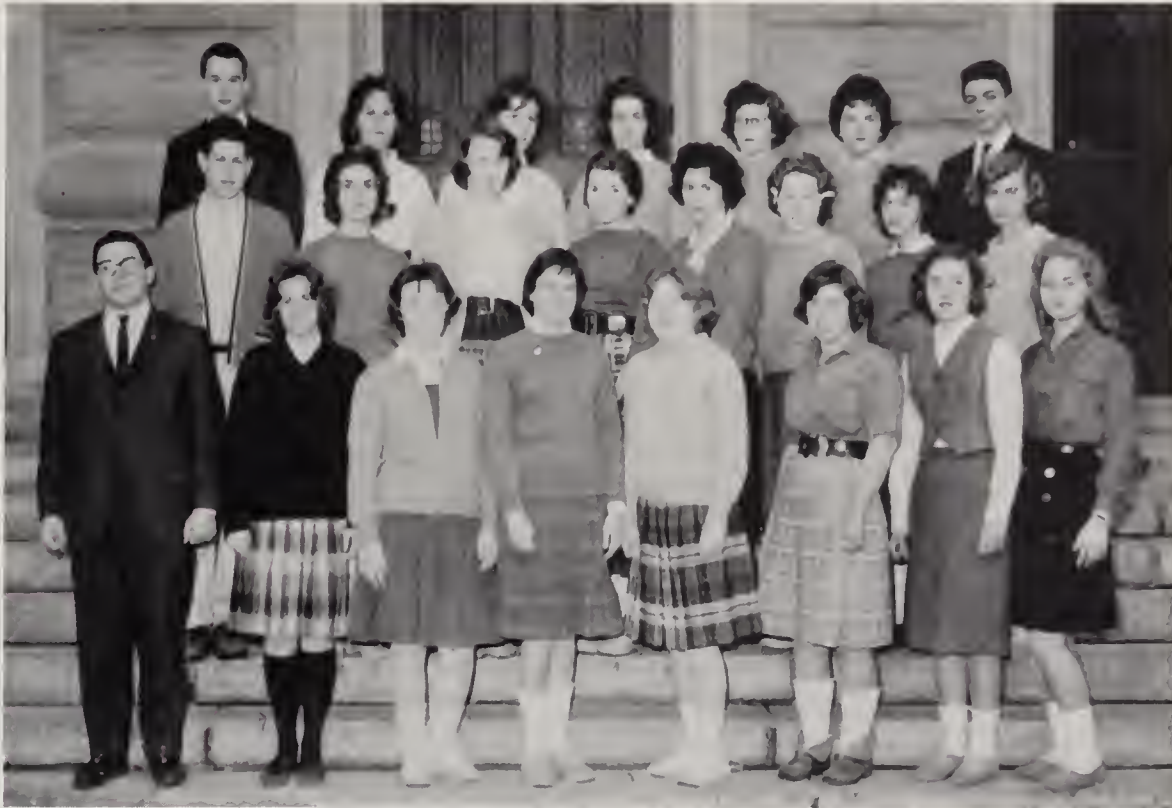

N. Cate, J. Simons, M. Corey, S. Georgian, J. Grant, S. Wongburg, C. Loming, C. DiRusso, K. Manners, R. Johnson, R. Quinn, J. Conquest, J. Anderson, N. Blake, F. Yoffe, D. Hunter, P. Jacobs, B. Karp, S. Norton, J. Allesmitis, S. Alexrod, J. Hahn, B. Factor, B. Dangel, M. Rosbash, R. Johnson, D. Wimer, S. Silliman, J. Lavelly, J. Steinberg.

MIXED CHORUS

The members of the Mixed Chorus sing for their own entertainment, not for their supper. The chorus has participated in and added to many musical presentation at the high school.

A. Weiner, S. Kaplan, K. Swanson, N. Kurson, E. Mann, D. Wasserman, P. Landry, S. Hart, A. Hyde, A. Bon-tamps, B. Bowen, D. Davis, B. Cha-bot, J. Bishop, G. Morgan, P. Smith, B. Patterson, M. Blaustein, B. Fox, S. Dangel, B. Alexander, M. Gris-wold, D. Penta.

GIRLS' CHORUS

Girls' Chorus, which meets twice a week, gives students the opportunity to express themselves orally — not that they don't anyway. Miss Seaver hopes to develop in the girls a better understanding and appreciation of music. The Chorus participated in Christmas Vespers this year.

S. Chipman, S. Bernheimer, K. Diffely, D. Case, A. Kasabian, S. Kissell, N. Der-lito, L. Marchand, B. Murray, C. Campbell, M. Muskalski, M. Morss, E. Livingston, N. Ferris, A. Villegas, G. Hagelstein, I. Nickel-sen.

O R C H E S I S

If Gene Kelly needs a new dance routine, he can certainly get many original ideas from Orchesis. The members, devising their own choreography, perform in an annual assembly for junior girls, and also in any school function which requires professional dancers. This year they graced the Senior Play.

MADRIGALS

During the fifteenth century small groups of people would gather at the village pub and sing folk songs designed for only a few voices. From this heritage has grown a small singing group called the Madrigals. The basic break from the past is that this group sings at school functions, churches, and group meetings rather than at bars.

INDOOR TRACK

This year the Newton High School indoor track team, coached by Mr. Lamoine Boyle and Mr. Malcolm Gallagher, set an impressive record in their seven meet schedule. The team remained unbeaten in their five dual meets against class A rivals. Highlights of the season were: Dick Carle's record breaking 50 yard dash in the B.A.A Schoolboy meet at the Boston Garden, with a time of 5.5 seconds, the new league record set by the lap relay team in the dual meet with Rindge Tech, and the outstanding running of Ed DeWolf in the 300 yard dash. With their many victories and numerous new records set, the team has much of which to be proud.

Well, maybe next time

This fall, field hockey was the favorite girls' sport at both Newton and Newton South and girls from both schools joined together to form teams. The varsity was forced to bow down five times but the junior varsity fared better and came close to an undefeated season. High scorers for the varsity were Ellie Jarrell of South High with four goals and Sophie Georgian of North High with three. High scorer of the junior varsity was Sally Brickson of North with five goals. Highlight of the season was the double win over Brookline by both teams.

BASKETBALL

Up Scotty, up!

Catch him; he put it there.

High and the mighty

It's now or never

The 1960-1961 version of the N.H.S. Tigers was plagued mainly by inexperience. Ed Hootstein, the only varsity returnee from last year's team, was out most of the season with an injured ankle. As a result, the Sophomores and Juniors picked up valuable experience in the rough Suburban League play. Outstanding play was turned in by Chuck Doucette, Kenny Smith, Mickey Beard, Jeff Hicks, and Dave Yeo. With these players and many promising J. V.'s and Sophs returning next year, first year coach Phil O'Connell has much to look forward to in the future.

Watch that fist

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

In a constant battle to keep Newton High's coeds healthy against their apparent will, the girls' physical education classes force them to take part in such activities as badminton, tennis, and field hockey and attempt to keep order in the locker room as girls scramble eagerly to take their long-awaited showers.

Miss Collins, Mrs. Flink, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Miss Frazier.

BOYS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Unitas we stand, divided we fall

Newton's Bellino

The Newton High School football team experienced an understandably disappointing season with no wins and nine losses. This can be attributed to the loss of manpower through the opening of South High and the fact that the opposing teams were enjoying a peak year. However, the year produced many thrills. In the season's opener against Everett, Co-Captain Fred Dalicandro returned a punt 73 yards for Newton's first score.

Against State Champion Brockton, the Tigers threw a first quarter scare into the Shoe City powerhouse by tying the score on a 63 yard sprint by Dick Carle. In the Medford clash, sophomore quarterback Mickey Beard fired a 30 yard aerial to junior halfback Ray Acchione to set up a touchdown. The indomitable Coach Malone set his hopes high for the next season by giving experience to promising juniors and sophomores.

GYMNASTICS

In its second year as a varsity sport, gymnastics has gained in popularity and has brought many thrills to the loyal spectators. This year there are many new faces on the squad. Coach Jessup has done a fine job instructing these future hopefuls. Led by Captain Jay Lavelly on the horizontal bar, the Newton team has fought hard in every meet. Some of the standouts have been: Al Cohen on the long horse, Warren Smith on the flying rings, Arnie

Vogel and Bill McDonough on the rope, Rusty Martin and Vincent Campisi on the parallel bars, and Riccardo Baccari on the side horse. Although the team lost a heartbreaker to Needham 49-47, they are looking forward to a successful year.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Our basketball teams were not as successful this season as in past years. In our clash with Newton South, the junior varsity outscored the Lions in a closely contested game. However, the varsity was not able to duplicate the feat. Top scorers for the varsity were Sarah Baer, Lou Chretien, and Lee Werman, while Sandy Tallo and Diane Fisher paced the junior varsity.

 MISSING FROM PICTURE: G. Coletti, K. Clarke and M. Goldbaum.

HOCKEY

Although this year's hockey team was rebuilding, they surprised many by finishing fourth in the GBI League. Under new coach Sarge Kinlin, the Tigers produced an interesting team that provided many sensational hockey games. Notable performances were: tying first place Arlington 0-0, beating Brookline 4-1, bombing Rindge twice, and beating Newton South in a non-league game. The Tigers were paced by the scoring of Pete Sahlin, Ken Clarke, and Terry MacLaughlin. Mike Ryan's brilliant play-making and Charlie Scammon's hustle were consistent. Guy Coletti's defensive aggressiveness was exciting, as was the strong goaltending supplied by Don Mason. Five returning starters mean a top-notch team next year.

BOUNCE YOUR WAY TO FUN!

Look! up in the air! It's a bird, it's a plane; no, it's a Newton girl taking off on one of the two new additions to the Gym Department; namely, a special springy contraption called the trampoline. The practice of bouncing your way to fun has swept the entire United States, and we, at N. H. S., are no exceptions. Why don't you try it yourself?

SAILING CLUB

FIRST ROW: Janet Merrill, Carol Ross, Barbara Ross, Susan Chipman, Mary Ellen Schiavone, Cherie Lamkin, Joyce Bown, Kathie Crowley, Marti Peterson, Ginny Hagelstein, Ingrid Nickelsen, Joan Richardson, Perry Little, Mr. Jacobson, Advisor. SECOND ROW: John Merrill, David Halberstadt, Vice-President;

Although all members of the Sailing Club go to Newton High School and hence are residents of New England, they do not waste time comparing the arrival dates of their ancestors. Instead, they do their own sailing.

Outings at Marblehead and interschool racing at the Mystic Lakes made up the bulk of the club's program this year. Members were thus offered the opportunity of capsizing among themselves or while competing with other schools, but they did not take advantage of this opportunity. Consequently, by the end of February, no one had capsized.

In an attempt to remedy this situation, the club had as guest speaker George O'Day, the only American to win a gold medal in sailing in the recent Olympics. Mr. O'Day supplemented his talk with films of the games.

OUTING CLUB

The girls of the Outing Club were never bored this year; they didn't have the time. They went bowling, held two swimming parties, hiked at the Blue Hills, sang Christmas Carols, and biked to Sudbury to go horseback riding! They also sold candy at basketball games so they could take an exchange student skiing with them. As if this was not enough, they went on a big winter sports weekend at Peterborough, and are planning a spring outing as we go to press. Boys, take notice, any girl that can get through all this is in better shape than you are.

Come on, baby

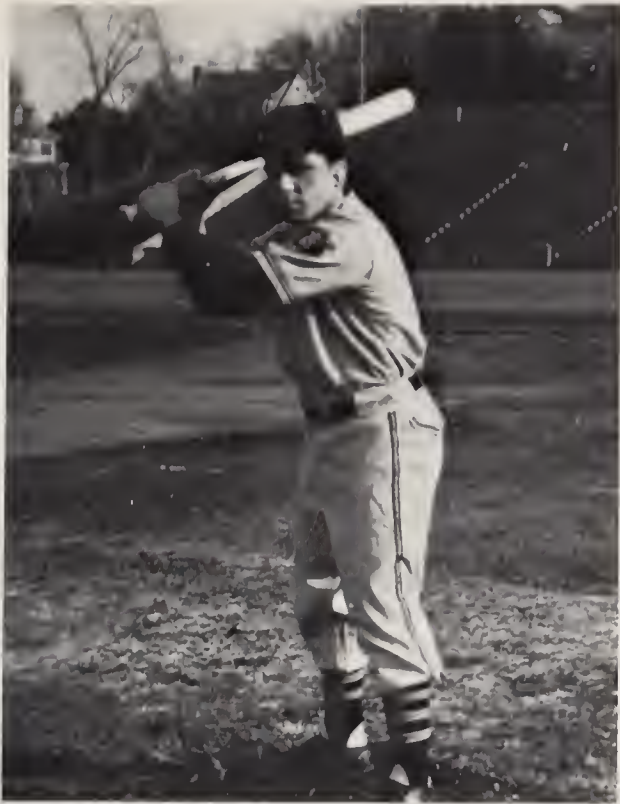

A curve or a fast ball?

Where's the ball?

Casey at bat.

A study in motion.

The Newton High School baseball team is looking forward to a banner year. Coach Ferguson's perennial contenders for suburban league supremacy begin the season with several tune-up games against Revere and Norwood before officially starting against our neighbor, Newton South. The inclement weather has delayed outdoor practices for the early part of March, but the pitchers have had plenty of warm-up in the drill shed. Led by batterymates and co-captains Gerry Marchand and Mike Libman, the Tigers will make themselves known around the circuit. Wielding big bats and displaying finesse on the field will be returnees Bruce Marquis, George Kerr, Fred Dalicandro, Mike Pasquarosa, and newcomer Don Mason. Best of luck for a successful season.

Here it comes, here it comes!!

If Stengel could see me now.

RIFLE TEAM & RIFLE CLUB

The members of the rifle team (pictured above) are chosen from the rifle club, licensed by the National Rifle Association. Newton is a member of the Middlesex Interscholastic Rifle League consisting of nine high schools. During this past year the team won seven of its ten matches including two private school matches. Captain-elect Peter Wade looks forward to another victorious season next year.

TENNIS

The tennis team at Newton High School, last year's Massachusetts State and New England Champions, is entering upon a new frontier.

This spring has witnessed the emergence of a new coach, Mr. Gordon Eliot who is replacing a fine mentor in Mr. Edward Poskitt.

Both Coach Eliot and Captain Steve Hecht have welcomed a large turnout of more than thirty boys. From all early indications, Newton High School's tennis team should have a winning season.

OUTDOOR TRACK

Newton's outdoor track team looks forward to another sensational season. The Boylermakers, supported by many returnees from last year, hope to recapture the State Championship. Coaches Boyle and Gallagher are looking to such boys as Dick Carle, Alvin Allen, Ted DeWolf, Tucker Lillis, Pete McKenney, and Jay Lavelly for outstanding performances. The excellent balance of this year's team might prove to be the key to victory.

TIGERAMA

Tigerama, since its modest beginning as a temporary event in October, 1955, has become a permanent feature of Newton High School. It assumed a new aspect this year as the two high schools vied for the honor of staging "the best Tigerama." As a result, all the Tigerama's—"the Roaring 20's," "South of the Border," and the others—were very successful.

Atori! The Orient has invaded the West; rickshaw boys bring their dates to the Newton High School tea house for the Junior Prom. An Oriental motif invites all to have a good time Japanese style under the watchful eye of Buddha. Sayonara!

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

The significance of the National Honor Society pin, which is reproduced here, is explained by the following excerpts from the annual induction ceremony:

"The emblem of this organization is the keystone and the flaming torch. At the base of the keystone appear the letters C, S, L, and S, which represent the four chief principles of the society: Character, Service, Leadership, and Scholarship. As the keystone forms a base to hold the perfect arch in perpetual stability, so the structure of our education must be held firm and true to the purposes of life by the virtues represented in this symbol . . . .

"The flaming torch is the emblem of our purposes: to bear forward the searching light of truth, to lead that others may follow in the light, to keep burning in our school a high ambition for the enduring values of life, and to nourish the flame of the torch with ourselves."

This year the society, with the faithful guidance of its new advisor, Miss Rachel Johnson, decided to emphasize Service. The group organized and participated in a work day, during which the members offered their free services to some families in the poorer parts of Boston.

WINTER CARNIVAL

January 28 on the school athletic field passers-by might have noted that the Future Sculptors of America Club was having an outing. This was not the case. Although there may have been out on the field a few would-be sculptors — and there were a few who we hope have no such aspiration — this was Newton High's first winter carnival. The hardy students who braved the cold that Saturday had to cajole, plead with, and curse the powdery snow; but some very presentable statues resulted. The culmination of the Carnival came February 11, at the Winter Carnival dance, sponsored by the Sophomore Class, when the best of these were awarded prizes. First prize went to the Tiger's Head. The giant Telephone won second prize. Tying for third place were the Alligator and the Buddha. The Guitar and St. George and the Dragon were awarded honorable mention.

NEWS FLASH: Mr. Sobol, we hate to interrupt you, but . . .

NEWTONITE

Everybody was talking about the Newtonite this year, and for good reasons, for this year saw the metamorphosis of a newspaper. Under the leadership of Fran Yoffe, Editor-in-Chief, the Newtonite was transformed from merely an official record to a journal of opinions and unbiased news reporting. The staff of the Newtonite has become proficient in turning out a newspaper with the fire of a college journal and the discretion necessary to a high school paper.

Topics such as school spirit, religion in the public schools, and disarmament were given special attention.

While often taking stands on these issues, the Newtonite has sought less to persuade students than to make them think. The school newspaper has fought a bitter battle to make the student commit himself, become involved. Editors Fran Yoffe, Carol Levi, Jeff Prince, Dan Wood, Fran Witty, and Nancy Caroline have constantly stuck out their delicate necks in the hope that someone would bother to take a whack at them. The entire staff and advisor George P. Nye are to be commended for a job well done.

ORANGE BOOK

During the first week of school, you may see a bewildered sophomore reach hurriedly into his books, grab a small orange volume, thumb through the pages, and then, with a look of purpose, rush off down the hall. Later, when he has become oriented, the sophomore will find this publication, the Orange Book, helpful in his selection of activities. Even upperclassmen find the book of assistance. This book is organized by students, set up by students, and published by students for the assistance of students.

PHILOSOPHY

PHILOSOPHY

During our sojourn in this little world, many of us have begun to reach out toward a greater understanding of ourselves and our universe. Challenging just about every idea handed down by our elders, we have become misanthropists and humanists, conservatives and radicals. We have discussed our ideas in religious youth groups, in the Senior Symposium, in philosophy clubs, on picket lines, and in coffee houses. We have read and written and argued; we have become individualists and individuals. In fact, some of us have become such individualists that we have denounced those who frequent Harvard Square as pseudo-intellectuals; others have denounced the denouncers as bigots and equally-pseudo-intellectuals. And so on.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

There is an organization in our midst called the Future Teachers of America Club. This club encourages students to enter the teaching profession, with guest speakers and field trips to settlement houses and to elementary schools. The club has an all-girl membership, but the advisor, Mr. Sutton, has hopes of adding a few male names to the roll.

FIRST ROW: E. Greenman, D. Phillips, D. Ippolito, R. May, J. Flagg. SECOND ROW: M. Cooper, D. Huff, S. Haven, L. Keene, C. Connors.

CADUCEANS

The Caduceans is one of the most worthwhile clubs at Newton High School, but unfortunately its purpose is not understood by most students. The club is not only for people planning careers in nursing and medicine, but for all people who feel they may go into some field of health, or who are just interested in the subject. Learning first hand about hearing problems was the club's most interesting experience this year.

FOREIGN RELATIONS

Our students apply their philosophy and plans for the future by working. Another incidental goal of their employment is money!

The job of the Rally Committee is somewhat godlike: it must create school spirit out of Newton High students. The committee has its biggest job during the football season. This year its members instigated some unique half-time shows and helped keep spirits up through the glummer moments of the season.

PARENT - TEACHER STUDENT ASSOCIATION

The Parent-Teacher-Student Association is a unique liason machine coordinating, discussing, and working with the mutual problems of these three groups. Membership in the Association theoretically includes all students, their parents, and teachers at Newton High. Although it may seem impossible that the students ever make headway against such odds, this is not the case. The students do their share of the decision-making and discussing.

SERVICE

ORANGE SHIELD

Being an Orange Shield member is a lonely job. A typical day's activities consist of watching a section of students eat quietly and politely, reminding them that their trays do not belong on the floor, calmly discussing the problem of neatness with those who object, and cleaning up the mess after students have left it. The only prerequisite for the job is that the applicant should have read and studied How to Win Friends and Influence People.

HIGH SCHOOL COUNCIL OF RED CROSS

Newton High can be proud of the work done this year by the High School Council of Red Cross, formerly known as the Junior Red Cross. The group began the year with a drive in home rooms which netted over two hundred dollars. Then in January, the group served at the West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital no Sundays, and on January 29th, Junior Red Cross Sunday, it swamped the hospitals with forty dozen homemade cookies. Throughout the year the club gradually filled a huge chest with articles ranging from toothpaste and washcloths to a soccer ball. This chest, designed to last forty-eight children for a full year, will be one of many released by the Red Cross to disaster areas. The club also made its own "fun books" for children from six to eleven, to send to the Peabody Home for Crippled Children and to children in Newton who are unable to attend school.

The club slipped in one responsibility this year, as its Newtonian picture had to be postponed due to a poor turnout. The photographer went unannounced to the following meeting, however, and found almost the entire club there. Figure that one out!

STUDENT OFFICE SECRETARIES

Little Student Office Secretaries brightened up the commons rooms again this year, helping lessen the burden of paperwork on the Mama secretaries, and at the same time doing what comes naturally: answering the telephone.

HOME ROOM MANAGERS

Day in and day out, the dedicated home room managers slave devotedly, collecting money. To them is relegated the job of selling SAT'S (good for one dollar off the low price of a Newtonian), distributing Newtonites (of which key features are mentioned in the Newtonian), collecting class dues (all three classes are represented in the Newtonian), and , of course, giving eager students their chance to buy a Newtonian. Naturally, these students are admired by their classmates, appreciated by their teachers, and lauded by the Newtonian, whose sale would be impossible without their help.

Advisor: Mr. H. Ferguson, Bacon: M. Champion, S. Young, G. Hicks, T. Schell, J. Merrill, R. McKinnon, R. Kimball, N. Meyers, P. Wolff, A. Silberberg, A. Dinner. Barry: L. Duchin, N. # ACTIVITIES COMMISSION

With so many projects and activities going on at once in our large school, a central organizing body is needed. The Activities Commission, through its four subsidiary boards, sees to it that sixteen hundred students do not all pile into the assembly hall in one X-block, and that Tigerama, Drama Festival, and a basketball game are not all scheduled for the same Friday night. The Assembly Board and the Social Board eliminate conflicts with the help of Mrs. Smith, Mr. Mechem's secretary. The Publications Board helps coordinate the financial affairs of the Newtonian, the Newtonite, and the Orange Book. The Clubs Board makes sure that our twenty-three clubs follow the rules set up for them by the school constitution.

You are serenely watching the physics film on the three fundamental types of forces, when, suddenly, ten seconds of the chariot scene from Ben Hur flashes on the screen. Such surprises can be attributed to the indefatigable sense of humor of Mr. Raymond Stephens and his Motion Picture Squad. Although, for obvious reasons the squad members do not wear orange and black arm-bands with the letters 'MP' on them, this does not indicate that these boys are less important than the famous traffic squad members. All kidding aside, the 'MP's perform an important service, and at the same time they gain valuable experience in the fields of motion pictures and mass hysteria.

Commerce was good this year, report co-chairman Robin Kaufman and Dick Lockwood. Imports included: Sylvia Colombo, Italy; Roswitha Radhuber, Austria; Steen Hamerum, Denmark. Exports included: Sue Draisin to Norway; Barbara Swanton to New Zealand; Stanley Freedman to Italy.

Carol Levi, AFS co-ordinator, told us that AFS stands for American Field Service. This service was founded in 1915 as a volunteer ambulance corps and served with allied forces in World Wars I and II. At the end of the last war, however, the membership decided that something had to be done to prevent another world war. So, in 1947, the members of the ambulance corps inaugurated the American Field Service Program, a private, nonprofit educational organization whose purpose is the furtherance of understanding and good will among peoples of the world. It carries out this purpose by bringing teenage students from abroad to study in American high schools and to live with American families for two, five, or eleven months.

FUND-RAISING ACTIVITIES

The A.F.S. fund-raising activities this year comprised a hidden-persuaders campaign designed to squeeze thirteen hundred dollars out of the non-tax-paying and therefore wealthy student body. This sum would be sufficient to support two foreign students next year, providing they stay away from soda fountains. Activities to date included fund-raising assemblies, an exciting student-faculty basketball game (won by the students, of course), and the sale of Christmas cards.

A.F.S. WEEKEND

The A.F.S. Weekend was a great experience for all who attended — the Newtonites and the foreign students from all over New England who stayed in Newton homes. On Friday, Columbus Day, the group attended a United Nations program at M.I.T., where they participated in discussions, listened to speakers, saw a movie, and lived it up in general. On Saturday there were meetings at South High, singing, and square dancing. As usual, the group disbanded reluctantly, but with the consolation that this great event would be covered in both the Newtonite and the Newtonian.

SENIOR CITIZENS

SENIOR CITIZENS

The student population of the world of Newton High School is a transient one. Each year a class of seniors graduates and a new class of sophomores enters. The sophomores enter from the worlds of their junior high schools; the seniors take off for a new world. This new world may be a college, it may be the business world, or it may be the moon. Wherever the senior goes, however, he carries with him the memory of his life in the world of Newton High School.

This section of the Newtonian is concerned primarily with the seniors of the class of 1961. They are the leaders and sages of the student body. Their unique status burdens them with harsh responsibilities, but it also gives them many special privileges. The responsibilities of the senior include being excused from last period study, graduating before the rest of the student body goes on summer vacation, and attending such events as the senior supper and the senior prom. Among his special privileges are taking College Entrance Examination Board tests, being turned down at seven colleges, and searching for employment.

Underneath the picture of each senior is a list of data which includes all subversive activities in which he or she has engaged while at Newton High School. The only subversive activity not mentioned is that of several boys who tried to convince the Newtonian staff to include telephone numbers in the data lists of female students.

This section also includes candid pictures of student and teacher inhabitants of the world of Newton High School. Each picture is captioned with a quotation from a minor playwright of the sixteenth century. This playwright was a man who looked closely at the world and recorded his observations. Some of these observations are strikingly apt when applied to the world of Newton High School.

So to the reader we say: Lay on, Macduff, and damn'd be him that first cries, "Hold, enough!" We wrote these captions, and you better read them!

FAREWELL

For us seniors, the three-year countdown is ending. The minutes have seemed long when we were waiting for lunch and short when we were waiting for a Brookline touchdown, but, long or short, they are only memories. In our short sojourn in this little world, we have been prepared, tested, and set on the right course by the technicians of modern education. As we leave, a part of Newton High School remains with us, and a part of each one of us remains at Newton High School. Now we part, and each of us follows his own star into the infinite universe of life. Let us hope there will be no fizzles.
